

Stationary Water Wars

Crealy – Exeter

Thorpe Park – London

The Ultimate Cool Down Summer Attraction

Water Wars is a proven winner when it comes to fun cool down attractions. Installed at over 700 sites across 23 countries Water Wars has been consistently generating significant secondary spend revenues for Theme Parks, Family Entertainment Centres and Water Parks for many years. It is a simple attraction to install, manage and operate, is very economical to run and offers great potential return on investment.

- Available in four different models including single, double, and six or eight battle station layouts
- Water Wars caters to all ages not just children. Teenagers, adults and families love it as well (if they can't actually fire balloons they still enjoy getting wet)
- Repeat play is almost guaranteed as one game is never enough
- Powder coated aluminium framework prevents rust and is extremely strong and hard wearing
- The game is a huge draw for spectators and can be used as part of the in queue entertainment
- Supplied with photodegradable balloons meaning there is no danger to animals or the environment
- Balloons are filled by the operator and should be stock piled in the morning for busy days
- New Depth Charge option with electronic sensors, warning sirens and water explosion system
